96 Very pretty blackberry, blackcurrant, walnut, forest-flower and dark-walnut aromas follow through to a full body with round, juicy tannins that are fine-grained and beautiful.

92+ It does pirouettes out of the glass with notes of crushed blackberries, wild blueberries and ripe blackcurrants plus hints of lilacs, forest floor and pencil shavings with a touch of wild sage. The palate is as intense as it is elegant, featuring layers of fresh black and blue fruits and gentle herbal accents, firm tannins and plenty of freshness, finishing long and minerally. -LPB, Nov. 2020

93 The is bright, punchy and full of energy. Sweet red berry, mocha, licorice, spice, menthol and a kiss of new French oak all grace the 2018. Plummy and pliant, the 2018 will drink well right out of the gate, but it has the pedigree to develop nicely for a number of years. - Antonio Galloni, Jan. 2021

93 Ripe and lush up front, with waves of cassis, mulled plum and blackberry compote underscored by graphite on the finish, adding grip. This is packed and well-built. -J.M., April, 2021
